DUTCH INDUSTRY FIT FOR THE FUTURE

Date

Wednesday 9 April, 09.00 - 11.00 a.m.

Location

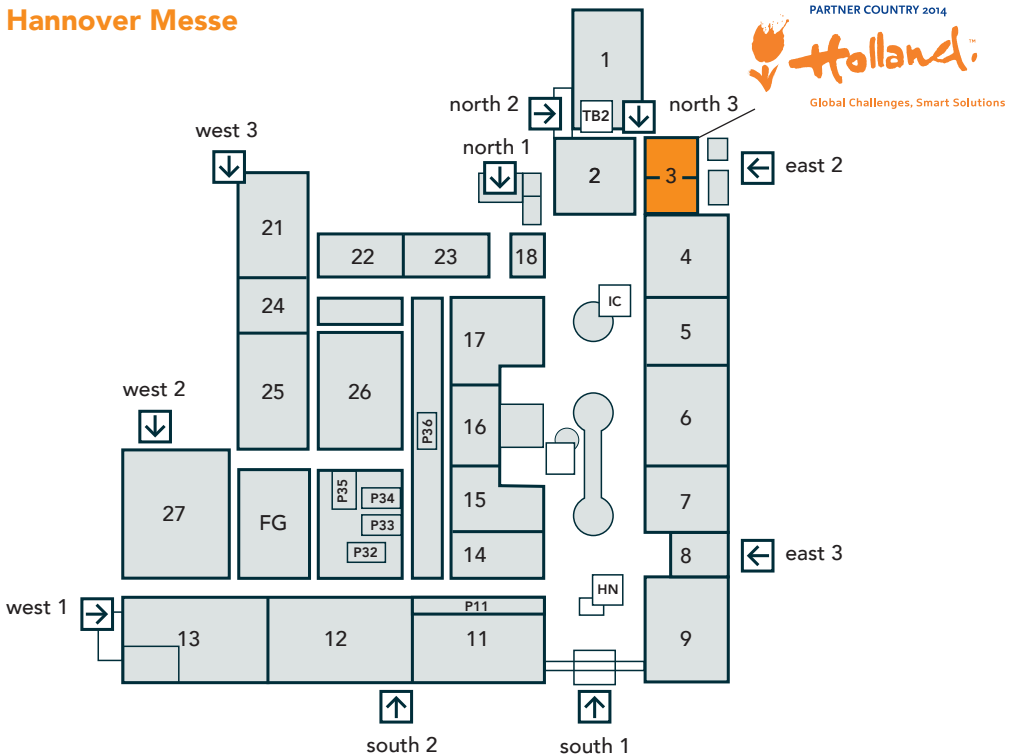

Hall 3, Stand F20 Holland Pavilion, Theatre

Presentation 'Smart Industry' and reflection on the report by Henk Kamp, Dutch Minister of Economic Affairs

Smart Industry is about smart manufacturing, factories of the future and a network-centric approach. It's not all about technology, but also about skills, organisation and new business models. In Germany this is known as Industrie 4.0. This transition is very important for the Dutch industry, not only for the OEMs, but for suppliers as well.

Especially companies with a future focus are invited April 9 at 9.00 a.m. in the Theatre of the Holland Pavilion (hall 3), to hear about the ambitions of the Dutch industry.

Response to the report by Henk Kamp, Dutch Minister of Economic Affairs

10.30 - 11.00 a.m. Hand out Smart Industry report / Informal networking in the Holland Pavilion

Smart Industries are industries that have a high degree of flexibility in production in terms of product needs, volume, timing, resource efficiency and cost. They are able to (fine-) tune to customers' needs, and are enabled, networked and driven by ICT and the latest available proven manufacturing techniques.
